● Ronan Point. A fire test gets out of control.

600 HOMELESS IN HIGH-RISE FIASCO

TENANTS IN eight tower blocks in Newham, East London, are to be rehoused because of structural and fire risks. About 600 people will be moved out of the tower blocks – which were built on the same lines as Ronan Point.

This follows the controversy surrounding the bad construction of many high rise flats.

Further tests on the blocks in Newham carried out by an independent firm of design consultants, showed that the buildings could collapse if there was a fire in any of the lower floors.

(Ronan Point, which partly collapsed soon after it was built 17 years ago, killing five people, was one of the many tower blocks built by Taylor Woodrow Anglian.)

Indeed, at one of the more recent tests carried out on Ronan Point, the floor cracked due to a controlled fire. The tests themselves were abandoned half way through – because building stresses became unacceptable.

These tests have only confirmed what the National Front has said for years. All tower blocks should be demolished – and all council housing estates should be torn down. The British people have the right to live in safe and decent housing.

HOUSING CRISIS! BRITISH FAMILIES FACE EVICTION

NEWHAM COUNCIL, IN the East End of London, has become the first Council in Britain to evict White people from their homes because of alleged "racial harassment".

Mrs Rosina McDonnell, her two sons, John and Anthony, and her six year old daughter Ann-Marie, were told that they were to be forcibly evicted just two weeks before Christmas. The grounds for this eviction were alleged "racial harassment" – yet not one single charge of vandalism, assault, criminal damage or any other criminal act has ever been brought against a member of this family by their neighbours.

So Mrs McDonnell was really served with notice of eviction because her Black neighbours didn't like Mrs McDonnell and her family.

Immediately the evictions were announced a locally based "Newham Residents against the Evictions" campaign orchestrated opposition to this appalling act. The local National Front Branch lent support to this campaign and local NF members attended a rally called by this defence organisation.

POSTPONED

As a result of this campaign the date of the evictions was postponed until mid January. Using the time gained by this postponement Mrs. McDonnell was put in touch with solicitors by the local NF. At the time of going to print the outcome of this is still in doubt.

The Chairman of the Newham Housing Committee, Councillor Fred Jones has already threatened a further four families with eviction – all four, of course, are white.

The National Front passed a resolution at its Annual General Meeting to oppose these evictions and a full campaign to stop them is being mounted by the East London Region of the National Front.

TOWER HAMLETS

Neighbouring Tower Hamlets Council is now threatening to follow Newham's lead, but in this Borough a well organised campaign called "Fairplay" has already started to fight the Council. Their spokesman, 29 year old computer operator, Ralph Harrison recently stated that:

"Fairplay is opposed to multi-cultural and multi-faith approaches in education and the special or privileged treatment of ethnic minorities".

"Whites are being swamped in housing and in schools, we are treated like second-class citizens in our own country and we are saying: Enough is enough".

Newham and Tower Hamlets are only the first, many other Councils will follow if these two get away with it. The National Front must make sure that they don't, by mobilising ordinary White British people against this monstrous tyranny.

BLUES PARTY NIGHTMARE

ONE TYPE of racial harassment which never produces any action by the establishment is all-night, all-day, two-day, three-day or even all week 'Blues Parties'. In the last ten years complaints to Councils about noise from such parties have soared by over 700%.

It is often weeks before a noisy party-giver gets to Court, during which time neighbours may have had to endure several more rowdy weekends. Agrosslydisproportionate number of these parties are held by West Indians with drugs freely handed round and music provided by "ghetto blaster" radios and tape recorders.

Neighbours have to endure the resultant noise and nuisance for whole days at a time – hardly surprising that they become frustrated. In Birmingham last year one man decided to call time on one West Indian party going on in the adjacent flat – after futilely complaining to the local Council, he walked into the party carrying a shotgun which he proceeded to fire into the room.

In December in Nottingham an elderly tenant had suffered months of nuisance and noise from an upstairs flat. In final frustration he made an explosive device which went badly wrong wrecking the whole flat block.

While condemning such drastic action, the fault for this lies directly with the multiracialist Councils and the grovelling police forces who fail to carry out their duty "for fear of upsetting community relations". Until they do, it is inevitable that in frustration some people will take the law into their own hands!

OVER 3 MILLION HOMES IN NEED OF REPAIR

OVER 30,000 homeless families are now being housed by Councils in bed & breakfast guest houses. For people like 22 year old Kate Gregan and her three young children Christmas was spent in a 12 ft by 10 ft bedroom. Having been deserted by her husband she has lived in the room for three months sharing all other basic facilities.

The huge growth in these bed & breakfast families is a direct result of Thatcher's economic policies. In 1974 the annual number of public sector houses built was 146,131, in 1983 this had slumped to just 47,000.

At the same time the number of privately owned homes that are in disrepair has soared to over 3½ million according to the Government's own survey. The sudden withdrawal of housing grants is creating a mammoth catastrophe.

In one road, Edmund Road, Saltley, Birmingham over 200 3-bedroom houses were to be renovated at a cost of £8,500 each. This would have turned them into decent homes which would last at least another 30 years. As a result of Whitehall's cash crisis this renovation is almost certain not to take place and within three years the houses will become beyond repair. Who is going to now repair their own house when the whole street could be condemned in a matter of months adding upto 600 more people to the homeless list?

As usual the Government is sacrificing long term improvements and aims for short term expediency – and Britain and the British people go on suffering.

LIVING IN POVERTY

NEARLY one in four families with children are living in poverty. That was the conclusion of a study by the Family Policy Studies Centre.

And the increase in unemployment is only one part in the overall rise in family poverty, said the FPSC.

However, the most disturbing trend was the growing number of children who were affected. For some 3½ million children were living in poverty.

This figure should not surprise anyone. For they just simply represent the visible casualties of a capitalist system that doesn't care . . .

48 Tenants on Race Charge

THE WHITE tenants of Clark Street, Stepney, are being taken to court by the Race Relations 'gestapo' just for signing a petition.

The tenants were angry that a vacant house on their estate was being allocated to Asians and the petition was to show their landlords, the GLC, they opposed this move.

However such petitions are against Britain's Race Laws and the 48 tenants now face charges.

Junk City: Fighting the Housing Estate Plague

ONE EFFECT of stacking people in tower blocks or crowding them into crumbling housing estates is boredom. To relieve this boredom many youngsters are taking drugs.

One estate badly hit by the heroin epidemic is the Ovondale Square Estate, in Southwark, South London.

Indeed, the situation is so bad that the estate is known locally as 'Junk City' because of the number of teenagers on hard drugs.

However, it's tenants are fighting back. In an effort to stop youngsters coming onto the estate to trade in, and take, drugs, entry phones have been installed. Greater co-operation with council patrols and the local police have also helped the situation, while a tenants' newspaper has also been set up in order to monitor and report on the bad housing-related drugs problem.

The direct action by these tenants is applauded by National Front News. Other housing estates in the grip of drug pushers should follow their example.

HOUSING TYRANNY

THE RIGHT TO live in your own home without interference is a fundamental right of every British citizen. Yet in 1985 this right has become subject to the dictats of our multiracial society. Anyone who is brave enough to stand up against the prevailing 'truth' as broadcast by our liberal politicians has become used to the vilification of their views by the media, but now even their right to live in peace is threatened.

Newham Council has taken the lead by evicting one family accused of "racial harassment" but when this case is examined in full the real motivation becomes obvious. Firstly the announcement of a policy of the eviction of tenants accused of racial harassment is an incentive for malicious neighbours to make unfounded accusations against their nearby White tenants.

"ROGUES CHARTER"

In the case of Mrs McDonnell this seemed to go even further. The family that made the complaints turns out to be headed by an Asian journalist. Within hours of moving in he delivered a note under the door of the McDonnells announcing that if he had any trouble he would complain of "racial harassment". This all sounds suspiciously well planned.

A further three families are now being threatened with rapid eviction as a result of this "rogues charter". Unless such a policy is halted by active opposition then the number of cases will increase and "racial harassment" will soon mean not saying "hullo" to your Black neighbours, or complaining about their parties.

TYRANNY

If there is one act of tyranny that should unite all White people it must surely be this appalling threat to their families. It could just be that Councillor Fred Jones of Newham has unleashed an anger that has not been seen in Britain for many, many years.

Bologna Bombing Myth Exploded

SECRET POLICE CHIEF HELD

● Bologna Railway Station 1980. The 'BIG LIE' that this was the work of Italian Nationalists is now also in ruins.

"NF LINKED to Bologna bomb terror group". Some NF News readers may remember a number of headlines and stories like that in the press some months ago. Television "documentaries" and several newspapers, ranging from the Marxist smear sheets to the Daily Mirror and Daily Express, ran a vicious smear by association attack on the National Front.

On 2nd August 1980, a powerful bomb ripped through the main railway station of Bologna, the most left-wing city in Italy. 84 innocent people were killed and several hundred were injured. The atrocity was immediately blamed on Italian patriots and nationalists.

In the months that followed, hundreds were arrested and some have been held in prison, without trial, ever since. A few fled to England, where their presence has been used by the media to try to smear the National Front.

So it is not surprising that the papers and T.V. have kept quiet about a series of amazing discoveries by the Italian authorities about the real culprits. Misumeci, the former leader of the SISME (Italian Military Secret Police) has been arrested for plotting with other secret service personnel to plant a massive bomb on a crowded Taranto – Milan train.

Fortunately the bomb did not explode. When dismantled, it was found to contain exactly the same unnusual and highly sophisticated explosive as was used in Bologna five months earlier. The evidence planted with the bomb pointed towards Nationalist groups, leading to even more repression.

FALSE TRIAL

But top magistrates in Rome and Bologna have now stated that the "evidence" was a false trail laid by the SISME men who really planted the bomb, and who also put pressure on vital witnesses.

Several interconnected reasons have been suggested as to why members of the Italian secret service are prepared to murder large numbers of innocent people. By making the explosions appear to be the work of a lunatic "neo-fascist" group, they provided an excuse to break up several rapidly growing radical nationalist organisations. At the same time, it was hoped that the inevitable Left-wing backlash would help to destabalise Italy and give reactionary military police leaders a chance to seize power. Finally, the terror campaign occured at just the right time to deflect public attention away from the P.2 masonic scandal, an organisation to which many top secret servicemen belonged.

THE TRUTH

All this doesn't prevent various extreme Marxist and Zionist groups from talking about sinister "international Nazi bomb plots", but hopefully no-one is likely to believe them in future; and when you think back to all those media smears against the National Front, it only goes to prove the truth of what NF News has been saying for years: If you really want to know what's going on, DON'T look in the Mirror, or any other Fleet Street rag.

On 23rd December, a bomb went off on a train from Florence – Bologna, while it was in a tunnel. There were many deaths and injuries. The Italian Communists blamed "Fascists", as did the British media, but no-one in Italy believes this.

The Deputy leader of the ruling Socialist Party, in an interview with the top magazine Republica, said that it was time to stop blaming "fascists" for these attacks. The latest outrage was, he said, a "warning from abroad" to the Italian Establishment against the trend to make links with the Arab world and the Eastern Bloc and to develop an independent Foreign foreign policy. This, he said, was not in keeping with the subservient role allocated to Italy after the war. It was agreed at Yalta that she should remain an American puppet.

So we have the Deputy of the Socialist Prmie Minister of Italy blaming the U.S.A. and specifically clearing Italian Nationalists.

THE SEEDS OF ITS OWN DESTRUCTION

SOUTH AFRICA has for decades been a bastion of civilisation in Africa standing in stark contrast to most of the regimes to its north. Its great wealth has been not so much its gold and diamonds as the iron determination of its people to hold onto their country. Yet now about 140 families are leaving each month.

The South African system has a flaw which may prove to be fatal and which is already causing serious difficulties. The flaw is that although South Africa claims to have a policy of 'separate development', they in fact allow Blacks in to do their dirty jobs. This involves Blacks living in proximity to Whites and working in the same factories, etc.

The Blacks often work as the effective slaves of the Whites while being denied their own land, their own traditions and their own culture. This 'bastardised' form of separate development carries with it the seeds of its own destruction.

The Blacks have become increasingly frustrated causing widespread outbreaks of violence. To counter this, conscription for Whites only has been extended. Many White South Africans have however become used to Blacks doing the dirty jobs and have lost the racial pride which would preclude this, or in other cases owe their racial loyalty to outside of South Africa.

MATERIALIST

Of the 140 families now leaving each month 20 go to Australia, 30 to Britain, 50 to America and 40 to Israel. South Africa only has a real future if a true policy of racial separation is followed, not the mixed bag and cynically materialist policies currently in force. A race that does not do its own work and care for its own land has no right to that land and no race can survive without a strong attachment to its land.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS SKETCH

NOW SHOWING

IT HAD ALL the makings of a Cecil B.De Mille epic. A story of biblical proportions. The Black Jews of Ethiopia airlifted from famine-racked Africa, by a caring and concerned government, to the land of plenty that is Israel today.

The public relations people did their homework thoroughly releasing news of the soap opera exactly on cue, after Christmas yet before the 'Arms Talk' in Geneva, while their agent in Britain. Labour MP Greville Janner, timed his entrance to a T.

SNIFF, SNIFF . . .

There he was, hot foot from Tel Aviv airport, tears streaming down his cheeks; "The most moving sight", sniff, hankerchief dabs at eyes; "Never before have I witnessed"; apologies to interviewer as the microphone gets waterlogged. Yes everyone played their part, but what would the critics say?.

"Better than Entebbe!" "Another big hit from brave little Israel". Yes the leader-writers loved it, all in accord, another box office bonanza.

Now it's Saturday lunchtime and I'm bolting down my sausage and mash to catch the 1.30 from Sandown and half listening to the radio programme Any Questions where specially-picked establishment viewers ask specially-selected establishment figures specially-vetted establishment questions.

Suddenly I almost choke, a small voice from the back of the hall asks "Does the team think that the airlift of Black Jews was to provide Israel with another 7,000 troops for her continued occupation of Palestine?" . . . Deathly silence . . . then howls of anger and outrage. "How could anyone think such a thing?" All the public figures (bar Paul Foot to give him his due) denounce the question as anti-Semitic, and the question master swiftly moves on.

● Starving Black Jews. On the seventh day they became Israeli soldiers.

Was this a crack in the dam? Could this blockbuster, billed to be better than Holocaust IV, not be quite as palatable as the makers hoped?

GUY GIBSON AND CO.

Sunday saw the crack become a breach. The Sunday Telegraph published a picture showing the formerly starving Ethiopians looking fit and well being taught how to use a M16 automatic rifle. Further, Barnes Wallis inspired assaults continued on Monday and Tuesday. One Harry Pusey, of Chippenham, in a letter to The Guardian, had the audacity to inquire whether the planes that flew to Sudan were empty or did they carry food and supplies for the starving people that were to be left behind. While Eleanor Aitken, of Cambridge, writing in the same paper was more forthright, "Israel's humaneness would be wholly admirable if it were less selective."

From that glittering opening night it suddenly appeared that Greville Janner and the Board of Deputies had been saddled with a box office failure on a par with "Invasion of Lebanon".

Could it be that the world's greatest propaganda machines is losing its grip after forty years at the top of its trade?

"COMPLAINTS ARE BECOMING more and more frequent that large numbers of coloured people are living on National Assistance or the immoral earnings of white women. Also special objection has been taken to the way in which some coloured people acquire tenancies of older property and, by their conduct, make life difficult for white people living in the same area".

That was Home Secretary, Sir David Maxwell Fyfe on March 9th 1954 warning of an 'impending nightmare' unless something was done "to restrict excessive numbers of West Indians and West Africans" setting up in Britain at the end of the year.

Calling for immediate immigration controls he told parliament, "There is no indication that the problem will not continue to grow and the longer it is left, the more difficult and dangerous it may well become".

Later that year new Home Secretary Gwilym Lloyd George acknowledged "A surprisingly wide body of public opinion is in favour of immediate action".

The number of coloured immigrants causing such concern in 1954 was, 40,000 resident in Britain, and an estimated 10,000 due to arrive during the year.

TO OUR COST

As we know now, to our cost, public opinion was ignored and the coloured immigrants kept coming. Today we have in excess of 5 million resident in Britain with over 60,000 new arrivals settling in Britain each year.

January 1985 sees Britain suffering the legacy of the lunacy of allowing such massive alien settlement in our tiny island. For 30 years the politicians have stood by, "making it more difficult and dangerous" for future generations to deal with the problem.

Without a mandate from the British people, without even a by-your-leave, and going against the wishes of "a wide body of public opinion", the politicians of the last 30 years have changed the face of Great Britain; Just look what they have done to our country! . . . .

■ BLACK POWER! Thirty years ago the alarm bells sounded in Westminster yet no one took any notice.

PARENTS: Is this what you really want for your kids?

THIS MONTH WILL see the publication of the Swann Report, an enquiry into the education of children from ethnic minorities.

The report proposes the introduction of "positive discrimination" within Britain's schools, a code of practice which requires coloured immigrant children to receive preferential treatment over their British classmates.

The report also proposes that "positive discrimination" be exercised in favour of unqualified black teachers arguing that the black colour of their skins "be allowed as an additional qualification over and above any specific academic qualifications or experience they may have".

Many schools are not waiting for the Swann Report to be published before giving teaching priority to coloured immigrant pupils. January 1985 has already seen further steps taken to cater for the special needs of coloured school children elevating them to a privileged position above white children.

 Little Ilford School in Newham has made lessons in Hindi compulsory to all 11 and 12 year old children. Over half the pupils at the school are Asian.

* The Inner London Education Authority have introduced 'Modern Maths' to all their schools' curricula.' Gone are problems like the length of time it takes three men to dig a three foot hole and in will come problems about the earning power of a black South African miner compared to his white counterpart.

* West Midlands Schools' Inspector, Maurice Coles, in a memorandum to schools for the 1985 Spring Term, demands that special time be given in class "ensuring that Asian childrens' names be learnt and understood by non-Asian children and teachers". He's insisting, that in P.E., special attention is given "to the religious requirements of all black groups". He wants "Asian languages on the modern curriculum", non-English languages used in classroom response, and, in class, all teachers to use every opportunity to "draw upon what is meaningful in the lives of ethnic minority children".

* Children back after the Christmas break, at London's Plumstead Manor School were issued with a leaflet that instructed them to make no anti-coloured immigration references, have no fixed ideas about different races, repeat no statements that were not proved about races and not to read any anti-coloured immigration pamphlets. The leaflet warns of 'follow up action' on any pupils reported breaking these rules.

FLOUTING THE LAW

So thirty years on from those initial unheeded warnings about the invasion from the Third World, coloured immigration has changed the face of Britain's schools. A survey conducted by the National Association of Head Teachers during December revealed that 44% of Britain's schools no longer comply with the statutes laid down by the 1944 Education Act which decreed that every school must hold a daily morning assembly. Why are nearly half of Britain's schools flouting the law? Simply for fear that the British custom of daily worship in schools will upset the customs and religions of coloured immigrant pupils.

Not satisfied with just doing away with a Christian assembly, one-third of Britain's schools have replaced the saying of the Lords Prayer and the singing of hymns with cultural songs and plays from their ethnic minorities.

This is the legacy Britain's schools have been left with because for thirty years no British Government has had the guts to grasp the nettle and denounce the lunacy of large-scale coloured immigration.

■ RECOMMENDED. Unqualified black teachers, Asian languages, anti-racists maths, and preferential treatment for coloured pupils.

■ SCRAPPED. Morning assembly, the Lord's Prayer, singing of hymns, Christian Religious Studies, and traditional methods of teaching that have served the British people well over the years.

DRUG SMUGGLERS ARE MAINLY ASIAN

DETECTIVE sergeant Graham Sutherland, speaking at a police authority divisional meeting in High Wycombe at the end of last year, told a cross-section of authority members, police, teachers, social workers and councillors that drugs were being smuggled into Britain, largely through the ethnic minorities.

"We have a great problem", he said, "It appears that the Indian and Pakistani community are trafficking in heroin".

After four Indians had been jailed on November 16th for a £2 million heroin smuggling plot a senior Customs officer told The Guardian that Indians and Pakistanis had taken over as the principal smugglers of heroin into Britain. "Originally, they were mainly concerned with getting illegal immigrants into the country" he said.

Backing up the detective sergeant's and Customs officer's claims . . . .

October 4th. Merbhan Hussain and Mohammed Zamir jailed for 5 years after admitting possessing over 141 grams of heroin with intent to supply to others.

October 5th. Salman Sohata and Pritam Basra, both Sikhs from Wolverhampton, charged with conspiring to supply heroin worth over £1 million to others.

October 10th. Two Indians held at London's Heathrow accused of smuggling into Britain £½ million worth of heroin in brandy bottles.

October 12th. Pakistani Safdar Hussian jailed for 12 years at Edinburgh Crown Court for smuggling heroin into Britain worth £900,000.

November 3rd. Shewaram Punhabi and Haji Makwanan of Paddington remanded in custody at Horseferry Road magistrates court charged with having heroin with intent to supply, following a £2 million drugs haul at the weekend.

November 6th. Indian Pyare Shuvpuri of Cambridge jailed for 3 years at Reading crown Court for attempting to harbour and deal in £50,000 worth of heroin.

November 8th. Nigerian Selcan Tyem jailed for ten years at Reading Crown Court for smuggling heroin into Britain worth £650,000.

November 16th. Cleaning supervisors, Inderjeet Balu and his brother Sarup of Southall were jailed for 9 and 12 years respectively for a £2 million heroin smuggling plot which used cleaners at Heathrow Airport to evade Customs controls.

All this makes the few 'black pimps' that caused so much concern 30 years ago seem of little consequence. What would Sir Maxwell Fyfe have told the cabinet back in March 1954 if he could have seen the legacy that coloured immigration was going to inflict on Britain.

THE Privileged CLASS

GoodExcuse

THIS COLUMN in NF News No.60 told the story of a coloured woman who was given an absolute discharge by a judge at Cardiff Crown Court despite having purposely mown down someone with her car.

The mitigating circumstances that excused such an action was that the woman 'had been exposed to racial insults'.

It was those same circumstances that led to Jamaican Karl Charles-Harris walking free from Exeter Crown Court despite having buried a knife, up to the hilt, into the chest of second Lieutenant Andrew Quinlan when both men were stationed at the Commando Training Centre at Lympstone, Devon.

The knife had pierced the second lieutenant's heart nearly killing him, only luck and prompt medical treatment saved him. However the jury decided that Charles-Harris was not guilty of malicious wounding because he had been 'exposed to racial insults' . . . . He had been called a 'black Twat'!

Double Six

WEST MIDLANDS county council chiefs have given £5,000 for the launch of a 'blacks only' dominoes club.

Labour councillors claim the grant for the Birmingham club to buy dominoes, tables and prizes is good value. However news of the handout has upset many white folk in the area who work hard giving both time and money to keep their local clubs, teams and associations functioning.

Former councillor, Charles Bueton, writing to the Express and Star said, "For the ordinary people of the West Midlands the dominoes grant was probably the last straw".

Mindbending

THE GLC has approved a £95,366.00 grant to brainwash London's children under the age of five into accepting coloured immigrants as a permanent feature in Britain.

The grant is "to provide anti-racist play activities for the under fives" with "play materials carefully chosen for their positive black and ethnic images" according to the Lewisham Mobile Creche Project, the group that is to receive the grant.

Benefit Help

LANGUAGE DIFFICULTIES have led to Asians living in Leeds getting 'angry and frustrated' over their attempts to claim housing benefits.

That's what Leeds council believe, and to solve the problem the council's Finance Committee has approved four new posts for "bi-lingual officers to deal with housing benefit inquiries from members of Leed's ethnic communities".

Tory councillor Brian Rowley said it appeared that four people were being taken on to do a small amount of translation work at the expense of the taxpayer. His remarks provoked an uproar in the council chamber and were described as 'racist' by Labour and Liberal councillors.

Council Care

A NIGERIAN woman has been flown to Britain, at the expense of North London taxpayers, so that she can visit her two children who live in care at a council home.

Islington social services department have also approved living costs of £561,00 for the woman and another child while they are in Britain.

THATCHER'S THINKING ON COAL

THE THINKING behind Margaret Thatcher's attempt to destroy Britain's coal industry may have been revealed recently by Mr. Robert Belgrave, the head of an organisation called the Joint Energy Programme. This body, indepdendent though it sounds, is sponsored by the Policy Studies Institute and the Royal Institute for International Affairs.

In an interesting document Mr. Belgrave criticises the original 1974 Plan for Coal in a number of respects. He argues that instead of the simple economic considerations which are being portrayed as the Thatcher view of the coal strike a completely different set of criteria are really behind the government's actions.

He suggests that the future of the industry and of individual pits should be decided according to such criteria as national security, the social consequences of any closure, the ability of the coal industry to withstand unpredictable changes in economic circumstances and the rewards for both management and workers. So far so good, but just read his further analysis.

"Reliance on domestic supplies for more than 80% of UK requirements ought to attract not a security premium, but an insecurity penalty in any evaluation". In other words no British government should rely on British workers to provide Britain's energy requirements, instead we should import as much as possible from countries such as "Poland, Columbia, America, and South Africa". Could it be that Mr. Belgrave believes that the time might come when the British people become the enemy of a British government and that to leave energy supplies in the hands of British workers might be prejudicial to "national security".

He introduces, quite rightly, the idea that the effect on individuals and communities should be borne in mind. But in an attempt to return to the era of Charles Dickens he states that this is no function of the coal board – simple hire and fire at will.

As for his unpredictable changes he totally ignores the time taken to open a new pit should economic conditions improve, his reasoning is reduced to possible changes in the price of both UK-mined coal and foreign-mined coal. In his final analysis he calculates that should Britain's economy recover, and that is what Margaret Thatcher has been telling everyone, then in 15 years time we will produce just over 60% of our coal requirements. With 300 years supply of coal the question as to why we should be importing a single lump of coal let alone nearly 40% of our requirements seems to have been conveniently ignored by Mr. Belgrave.

ANNIHILATION

This analysis fits in so well with the action of MacGrefor and Thatcher that it is difficult not to believe that she has been thinking along virtually identical lines. These lines would end with the destruction of our coal industry, the annihilition of the rights of all those working in the coal industry, management and manual workers alike, and the reliance of the UK on foreign coal for our energy needs . . . . and she still has the nerve to describe herself as patriotic.

On Reflection with Ted Budden

DO THE MALAYSIANS give away their surplus rubber? Indeed they do not!

When the rains come and the Orientals squelch joyfully through their abundant paddy fields, do they give their rice surplus to the deserving poor? Don't hold your breath!

Does India donate her tea surplus to western char addicts? Not on your Nellie! She restricts exports and doubles the price to us.

Arabs do not give us the oil that costs them nothing. They seal off the wells and make us pay through the nose.

Coffee producers invent frosts in Brazil in order to make the price to us "realistic" – that is to say, expensive.

FATHEADS

In the world of the non-European, otherwise known by sloganising fatheads as "the Third World", nothing is for nothing.

Yet, in the western world, with its long tradition of christian masochism, it is fashionable to deplore our modest prosperity and denounce surplus as sinful.

It is our duty to give freely to the "Third World" and subsidise the proliferation of Non-Europeans. It is the destiny of the western working man to labour long and hard for Sambo.

So it should surprise no one that the current hysteria over Ethiopia should have resulted in professional hysterics describing the EEC grain mountain as "obscene".

Mark you, I've had some pretty harsh things to say about it myself, being one of the unfortunates obliged to pay for it. Nevertheless, it is a commodity, just like any other, and is freely available for sale – even to the Russians.

FREELOADERS

I have noticed that those anguished persons who insist that we should give our grain to "Third World" freeloaders are themselves outstanding non-producers – bishops, social workers, left-wing politicians, veteran mature students, and, of course, that bitchy buffoon and prize-winning bankers' boy Edward Heath.

Such people are an increasing source of irritation to me and their wingeing so sours my normally sweet disposition as to provoke me into uttering some choice expletives.

I wish I could repeat them but they are, unfortunately, obscene.

OUR CAMPA ANIMAL WE

A RELIC FROM OUR FEUDAL PAST

AND THEY CALL IT SPORT

■End of the chase. An exhausted fox is tossed in the air before being ripped to pieces by the hounds.

ARE YOU OPPOSED to Bloodsports? If so you're in good company. For all opinion polls ever commissioned on the subject have shown that the majority of the general public are opposed to them.

Bloodsports have no place in an enlightened 20th Century. They are a relic of our feudal past which serve only to titillate the jaded appetites of unimaginative and callous people. Bloodsports are cruel, unselective and totally inefficient even if one does happen to consider them a form of control – all they manage to do is upset the balance of nature.

A National opinion Poll has shown that 70% of all farmers don't consider the number of foxes on and around their farms to be harmful. And the Ministry of Agriculture has stated that "the loss of lambs to foxes does not constitute a loss of economic significance to the farming community nationally."

Hunting is a deliberately inefficient form of control in any case for, without a large number of the quarry species to hunt, there would be no fun. Even the Hunts also openly admit to encouraging quarry species to breed.

OTTER HUNTERS

In spite of claims to be conservationists, the bloodsporting fraternity continued to hunt the now protected otter on English and Welsh rivers long after the population had declined to a dangerously low level. Indeed, the same rivers are still being hunted by former otter hunters, now in pursuit of mink and coypu.

The 'sporting' aspect of hunting is a myth. The quarry is chased until it is exhausted. Foxes regularly find the sancturary of their earths deliberately blocked with stones or sticks and have to stagger on until overwhelmed by the pursuing hounds.

Even if they do reach an unblocked earth they are often bolted by terriers and hunted again. Either that, or the hunt's dirty work boys, the 'terrier men', will dig down to the terrified creature and kill it by smashing its skull in with their spades, shooting it or throwing it to the hounds.

Mutilation of the hunted animal's body for trophies is a regular occurance on all types of hunt, particularly stag and fox hunts.

It is for these reasons why National Front News demands that this horror must end. We say: Ban Pursuit Bloodsports NOW!

Why we must ban Factory Farming here in Britain

NINETY–FIVE per-cent of the hens in the UK are kept permanently imprisoned in battery cages. They can never spread their wings; scratch in the earth; make a dust bath; walk, run or exercise; perch nor make a nest. Yet instinctively they need to do all these things.

Instead they squat on a sloping wire floor for the whole of their productive lives, with wire all around them and a wire ceiling.

In a 20" x 18" cage there will be 5 or even 6 birds – a bird every 4", even though the bird's wingspan is 32". The Protection of Brids Act, 1954, makes it an offence to keep any bird in a cage which is too small for it to spread its wings.

But poultry is exempted because of the profit motive! If they were not, battery cages would need to be at least three times larger than at present. If the birds want to move, they have to clamber over one another.

Overcrowding in an unsuitable environment causes aggression – feather picking and cannibalism. To prevent this, the hens may be debeaked, an extremely painful operation in which one-third of the upper beak is burned off. Alternatively, the lights may be kept very low as this has been found to reduce activity in the birds.

The Tory government gives two reasons for retaining the battery cage – firstly that more research in alternative methods is needed and secondly, that it is against EEC rules to take unilateral action.

ALTERNATIVE METHODS

But, as usual, the Tories are lying. For alternative methods are already available – Free range eggs, for instance.

Here hens live in groups of about 100 in scattered sheds on grassland which they share with other livestock. Indeed, on one farm near Petersfield, Hampshire, 6,500 hens are kept like this and the farmer says they give a very good return on invested capital.

There are also many semi-intensive, loose-flock systems which allow the birds to express their inherited behavioural patterns, stretching their wings, dust bathing, etc.

THE EEC

The Council of Europe (not the EEC) has laid down that all farm livestock should be housed in quarters suitable to their physiological and behavioural make-up.

Switzerland has already started a 'phasing-out' programme. Indeed, battery farming will be illegal in 1991. The Supreme Court of Appeal in West Germany has also ruled cages illegal on account of the "continuous cruelty" caused to birds. But the EEC has heid over that ruling.

The Agricultural Committe of the House of Commons recommended in July, 1981, a phasing-out of battery-cages over a five-year period. Nothing, as yet, has happened!

But it is clear that something must be done. Britain must lead not only Europe but the rest of the World. We must ban factory farming in Britain!

■Not a pretty sight. A battery hen survivor.

■A life of discomfort and restriction.

■Free Range. There is a viable alternative.

IGN FOR ELFARE

THE CASE AGAINST THE CRATE SYSTEM

TAKEN FROM their mothers when only a few days old, calves are imprisoned in 24" wide wooden crates, so narrow that they are unable to turn around. They live in these crates day and night, only being allowed to put their heads through the front of the crates at feeding times.

The narrowness of the crates even prevents the calves from reaching round with their heads to groom themselves.

The calves are denied exercise and the companionship of their own species though they are naturally a herd animal.

The floors of the crates are made of wooden slats which result in their leg joints becoming malformed. Many are unable to stand properly or to walk when taken out of the crates for slaughter.

The calves are fed on an all liquid diet which is deliberately short of iron in order to give an unnaturally white colour to the veal. They often suffer from a form of anaemia.

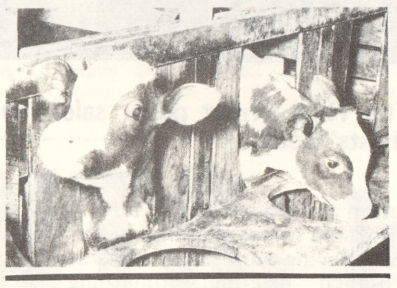
Their diet also lacks the fibre which all animals need. In an effort to obtain fibre, the calves will gnaw at their wooden crates and also eat their own hair. This denial of roughage to the calves is because a more natural diet would result in the calves' flesh being red.

Water is witheld so that the thirsty calves drink more of the milk substitute gruel and thus increase their liveweight gain.

Often the calves are kept in darkness except at feeding times.

The animals show unmistakable signs of pain, frustration and exhaustion.

After 14 weeks of misery in these narrow wooden crates, the calves are taken, sometimes over long distances, to the slaughterhouse.



■ Prisoners of the Crate.

Or, very often, they are exported live in horrific conditions

It can be seen that the crates system is designed to produce a tender light coloured carcase in the shortest possible time.

However, there are alternatives to this barbaric system. Veal yards, for instance, are not only more humane but, some claim, more economic than the crates system.

Here the calves are penned in groups of 20 on deep straw in covered yards. They are able to rest, exercise, play and have the company of their own species.

The floor of the yard is slightly sloped to allow good drainage. There is natural light and ventilation.

An automatic milk-feeder reconstitutes milk powder, warms and pumps it along rubber tubes to artificial teats inside the pens. The calves can suck milk whenever they wish.

The straw not only supplies bedding but also provides the calves with the roughage which is such a natural part of their diet.

National Front News believe that the crate system of producing veal should be abolished. Instead, the humane veal yard system should be introduced nationwide.

TO SATISFY THE CRAVINGS OF THE RICH AND VAIN

■ The Gin Trap can hold onto a victim for up to 15 hours.

MOST OF us would agree that the annual slaughter of tens of millions of animals to satisfy the perverted cravings of the rich and the vain is horrifying enough in itself. Evidence is coming to light, however, of an even more sickening development within Britain's growing fur trade – the use of gin traps by 'cowboy' hunters out to make a quick sale.

The gin trap was banned in Britain in 1958 after a government report described it as "a diabolical instrument which causes an incalculable amount of suffering". The trap consists of two metal jaws and a trap mechanism, and springs shut on anything or anybody unfortunate enough to step on it. The victim is held for an average of fifteen hours in screaming agony. It is quite common for an animal, writhing in pain, to escape by leaving its own paw or leg behind in the trap, so intense is the pain to which the animal is subjected. This is casually described in the trade as "wring-off". It is also commonplace for the victim to smash its teeth while vainly attempting to bite itself free.

For every 'target' animal killed in the gin trap, at least two unwanted animals are caught by mistake. The trade word for these animals is "trash", which includes eagles, swans and owls, as well as domestic pets.

According to the RSPCA's chief wildlife officer, Stefan Ormrod, these hunters "operate in a grey area of law. Legally they are in the wrong. But who knows what is going on when the whole business is totally unregulated?" The RSPCA, however, like the victims of these obscene trapping devices, have to tread carefully. After all, their patrons at the Palace frequently grace our newspapers with their fur coats and trimmings, specially made for them by those who make a living out of suffering. And, as RSPCA spokesman Mike Smithson points out, "It is not for us to tell the Queen what to wear"!

STANDING FIRM IN LOWESTOFT

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS helped pick up copies of NF News strewn outside W.H. Smiths after a cowardly and vicious attack on NF papersellers in Lowestoft town centre.

A gang of ten or more pounced from behind on Tom Holmes, the Yarmouth National Front organiser, and four local activists punching and kicking them before they ran off. One paperseller had to be treated for a deep gash to the back of his head.

★ Tom Holmes. Yarmouth Branch Organiser.

PLEASED

The December paper sale was the first in Lowestoft since the late seventies and Tom Holmes was very pleased with the results. "The public gave us a big YES, and we shall be back again. After the attack a great many people helped pick up our papers while others tended to our injured lad. Everyone seemed to have a sympathetic word".

Nick Griffin, Press Officer of East Suffolk NF confirmed the Front would be back. He told the Lowestoft Journal "These thugs were trying to frighten us off, but it won't work. We will be back in the new year with as many people as necessary to protect our papersellers".

No Case to Answer: ANL Claim Dismissed

A TRUMPED up charge brought by a prominent member of the Anti-Nazi League against a National Front organiser was laughed out of court by Suffolk magistrates.

James Fennessy, the organiser of Bury St. Edmunds National Front and NF member Steven Toates were cleared on all counts of using threatening, abusive or insulting behaviour with intent to provoke a breach of the peace.

Labour Party supporter and leading ANAL member Ms. Brenda Shelley had claimed that the Front members had subjected her to racial abuse, shouting 'death to Israel' and uncomplimentary things about Jews. However magistrates at St Edmundsbury Court found that there was no case to answer.

THE WEST MIDLANDS REGIONAL OFFICE

AS a result of the great efforts made by Birmingham Branch of the National Front, the West Midlands now has its own Regional Office. Located in central Birmingham the building was acquired in bad condition and members of Birmingham NF have spent considerable time renovating the premises. This process has now nearly been completed.

The building has four fair sized rooms which will shortly be stocked with NF literature and the building will be used as a central distribution depot for the whole West Midlands. A small printing machine has also been installed and is capable of producing leaflets at short notice for Instant Response activities.

IMMENSE VALUE

With the West Midlands continuing to expand into towns such as Wolverhampton, Coventry and Darlaston the office will be of immense value in providing regional co-ordination and acting as a central resource centre. All credit must go to the Committee members of Birmingham Branch for this significant step forward – the first Regional Office outside London for many years.

PETER AND THE BLACK MUGGERS

FOUR BLACK muggers who attacked three young white girls outside the Wembley Empire Stadium got a nasty shock when they tried to make off with their ill-gotten gains. For National Front member Peter Turpin and his wife saw the whole incident and Peter, an ex-army physical training instructor, gave chase apprehending one of the youths.

With his wife phoning the police, the muggers were quickly caught and the valuables returned to the young girls.

NF HELP FOR MINERS' FAMILIES

THERE WERE handshakes all round when Bob Taylor of Leeds National Front met pickets outside Yorkshire's Riccall Colliery.

For Bob was handing over three sacks of tinned food which has been collected by Leeds NF to help local striking miners' families during the freezing weather.

The miners also accepted copies of National Front News and Nationalism Today which they were busy reading when Bob Taylor left.

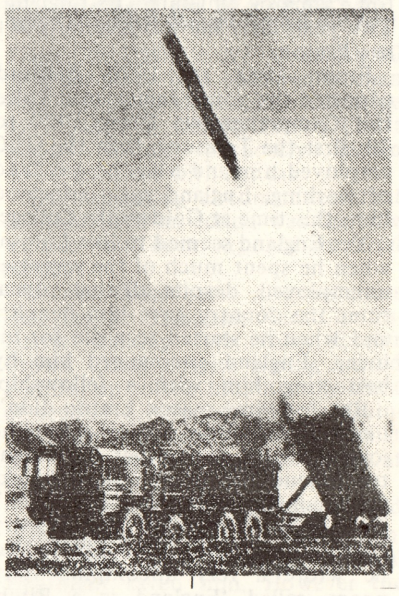
Sentinel echoes Front's call

THE INDEPENDENT Loyalist journal, Ulster Sentinel, has done all Britons a great service by bringing up the subject of the siting of Cruise missiles in Ulster.

For the Ulster Sentinel reveals that both the main Republican parties, Sinn Fein and the SDLP, support the CND/Red line of British unilateral disarmament.



■ Cruise Missiles. No place in Ulster either.

Whilst not many people would be surprised by our enemies wanting to leave Britain undefended against any foreign attack, what is surprising is the attitude of Ian Paisley's DUP.

For a spokesman of the DUP has said that American Cruise missiles should be based in Ulster, "to enable the province to take its share in the risk involved in defending Western Europe with nuclear arms."

ECHOES

Fortunately, not all Loyalists want Ulster littered with Yank Cruise missile bases. The Ulster Sentinel closely echoes the National Front's call for a policy of armed neutrality. It also maintains that: "US Cruise missiles have no business being anywhere in Western Europe, let alone Britain, and certainly not in Ulster."

National Front News* congratulates the Ulster Sentinel on its radical stand. Together we must work together to yet the Yanks out of Britain!

IRA MAN SECURES GLC POST

ONE OF Gerry Adams' top men has managed to wangle himself a job in London on Ken Livingstone's GLC.

Jim Faulkner, an IRA leader, formerly worked in the offices of Provisional Sinn Fein, on Belfast's Falls Road. His position on the Sinn Fein payroll was that of 'Housing Administrator', but he is regarded by Loyalists as something of an 'architect' since he had the ability to change the skylines in towns and villages all over Ulster with 2001 bombs.

FUTURE TARGETS

January saw him start work in a new position within the GLC, that of a Welfare benefits officer! He now works in an open-plan office on the third floor of Drury House, on Vauxhall Bridge Road in London.

Faulkner can now use his 'cover' to further explore the city of London for future targets, and relay the news back home, where Provisional IRA units will no doubt study the 'form'.

Isn't it good to know that this top IRA member is now looking after London's welfare?

POETIC JUSTICE

IN 1961 a Mrs Johnson from Chapelton, Jamaica emigrated to England. Two years later she was joined by her son Linton.

From 1963 to 1970 England educated the young Jamaican at Tulse Hill Comprehensive. From 1970 to 73, first the Treasury, then the GLC employed him and when he was tired of working, England again educated him, this time at Goldsmiths College.

Yes England seemed to like Linton, when he spent much of the seventies unemployed, despite all that education, the country gave him benefits and when he started to write for his living, England encouraged him by bestowing him with a fellowship.

But for some reason Linton didn't like England. When he left school he joined the Black Panther Movement to 'pursue the liberation of blacks from colonial oppression in Britain'. In fact his dislike for the country that adopted him was so intense that he wrote a very uncomplimentary poem called 'England is a Bitch' which has become an anthem to the country's black community.

Now I'm no judge as to the merits of the poetry of Linton Kwesi Johnson, who at present sits on the editorial board of the Black Power magazine Race Today. But what I can say is that, as well as being very ungrateful, his poem has a mistake on the second line. It reads, "England is a bitch, there's no escaping it". No you're wrong there Linton! The day after the National Front gets to power you'll be "escaping it" all right, along with Messrs. Narayan and Boateng on your first plane home from Heathrow.

PEASANT'S DAY

I SEE that 'The Holme' in Regents Park has been sold for over £5 million. The 40 bedroom house, built in 1818 by Decimus Bruton, now belongs to a 'buyer with Middle-East origins'.

It will no doubt be annoying to the new owners that the sale agreement requires them to open the 4½ acre gardens, which slope down to the park lake, at least 4 times a year. Just to let the British public see how the other half lives.

EXCESS BAGGAGE

The Tories made a lot out of the sale of 'cheap' EEC butter. The fact that this 'cheap' butter cost the tax-payer billions of pounds in budget contributions to the Common Market seemed to escape them. The 'cheap' butter was given away free in Common Market countries like West Germany, while in Britain the middlemen made a killing.

ABSENT FRIENDS

THE NATIONAL Union of Students has been accused of soft-pedalling over anti-Semitism.

That's the claim of Miss Erica Wellington, a Jewish student from Leeds University. Miss Wellington is upset that the union's anti-racist report 'didn't even mention anti-Semitism".

Of course the NUS can be forgiven for failing to mention 'Gods chosen people'. For while liberal thinkers, who believe that 'racism' inhibits the progress of ethnic minorities, can make a case of sorts for Britain's coloured community, the same cannot be said for the Jews.

Anti-Semitism doesn't appear to have hindered their progress in the community! We've got a Jewish Home Secretary, a Jewish Chancellor, a Jewish Education Secretary, a Jewish shadow Home Secretary, Jewish newspaper proprietors, three out of the top five richest men in Britain are Jewish, a Jewish Chairman of the Manpower Services, a Jewish Chairman of . . . . . etc . . .etc.

MAKING THEIR MARK

HOUNSLOW NATIONAL FRONT

■ The High Street paper sale. The highlight of the Hounslow activists' week.

WHETHER WE ARE talking about its history or the age of its membership, Hounslow is certainly one of the youngest branches in the National Front.

Formed at the start of 1982, its young activists have constantly worked to put this outer-West London suburb onto the NF map, and having succeeded they are now determined that Hounslow will grow into one of the Party's biggest branches and begin to make serious inroads into local political life.

The street paper sale is one of the highlights of the Hounslow activist's week, and 3.00 p.m. on Saturday afternoon is paper sale time for the eight young men assembled at the NF pitch in the High Street. As approximately one in two faces to be seen in the High Street on a Saturday is of a tawny hue, a large and robust team is necessary to ensure the smooth running of the sale. This week there is a new issue of NF News available and a wide selection of badges, so the team manages to raise just over £7 before PC645T makes his usual gesture of solidarity with Hounslow's coloured hordes and terminates the activity. A complaint will be registered in due course. Meanwhile, a small team of lads and lasses have raised £2.30 in nearly-White Feltham nearby.

Sunday isn't quite a day of rest when there is a branch meeting being held the following evening. Organiser Bob Inglis and Chairman Phil Andrews use the afternoon to 'phone local members reminding them of the meeting and making sure they'll turn up. Later in the evening Bob and his sister Sue, the branch Treasurer, visit Hounslow High Street's two 'NF pubs' to pick up some last-minute recruits for the meeting.

The monthly branch meeting itself is a splendid affair, with the room filled nearly to capacity. The minutes of the last meeting are read out by branch Secretary Tracy Davies, followed by the branch accounts from Sue and the Organiser's report from Bob. After a short 'warm-up' talk from the Chairman, the Guest Speaker takes the platform. Hounslow branch meetings are always addressed by an interesting speaker and this month is no exception, with Directorate member and Elections Department Chairman Graham Williamson giving a highly instructive talk on the subject of sinking local roots in the local community. The collection raises just under £50 and the bookstall brings the total nearer to £60. Having sunk local roots at the branch meeting, something quite different is sunk in a local pub afterwards much to the annoyance of the dozen or so reds there assembled.

■ Branch Organiser Bob Inglis and one of Hounslow's numerous lady members.

The following day Bob and Sue drive out to Heston to conduct a 'follow-up' visit on an enquirer. Unfortunately he is out, but a discreet personal note is left behind with a promise to call again next week. Meanwhile Phil Andrews visits a few local sympathisers with the latest NF News, soliciting a few small donations as he goes.

LEAFLETTING

Wednesday is leafletting day, and six members take a supply of leaflets to the Worton estate in Isleworth South ward. This estate is a close-knit community, most of the residents having lived there all their lives. Now a few Asian families have begun to creep in and the community spirit is under threat. About 700 leaflets are distributed and the activists return to a well-deserved drink in a friendly pub. There they meet some locals and get into an interesting political discussion. A middle-aged gentleman with a pipe and a copy of the Standard complains that a third family of Asians has moved into his quiet, residential Isleworth street. Last year there were none. He is offered a leaflet and a little sympathy. Next time he will be voting National Front.

On Thursday Tracy deals with a little correspondence and Phil issues a press statement on behalf of the Committee promising action if Hounslow's left-wing Council attempts to carry out its threat to evict tenants for what it describes as "racist behaviour". The Hounslow NF will not tolerate the bullying of White tenants by a Marxist council hell-bent on pampering the borough's huge immigrant population. Meanwhile Bob delivers 70 papers and some merchandise to Darren Crewe, a Hanworth activist who organises his own very successful sales on football coaches. Last time Chelsea played away he raised £28 from one coach alone!

LETTER

First thing Friday morning Phil purchases a copy of the Brentford, Chiswick and Isleworth Times. In it is his letter condemning a Labour councillor and ex-Mayor for purchasing his council house after having condemned so many others for doing so in the past. The paper has a readership of about 20,000. Friday evening is reserved for socialising, but even here Hounslow activists combine business with pleasure. Hounslow's main 'NF pub' attracts up to 50 NF sympathisers on a good evening, and this week a cool £16 is made from literature sales and donations.

■ Branch Chairman and Directorate member Phil Andrews. The inspiration behind Hounslow's growth and success.

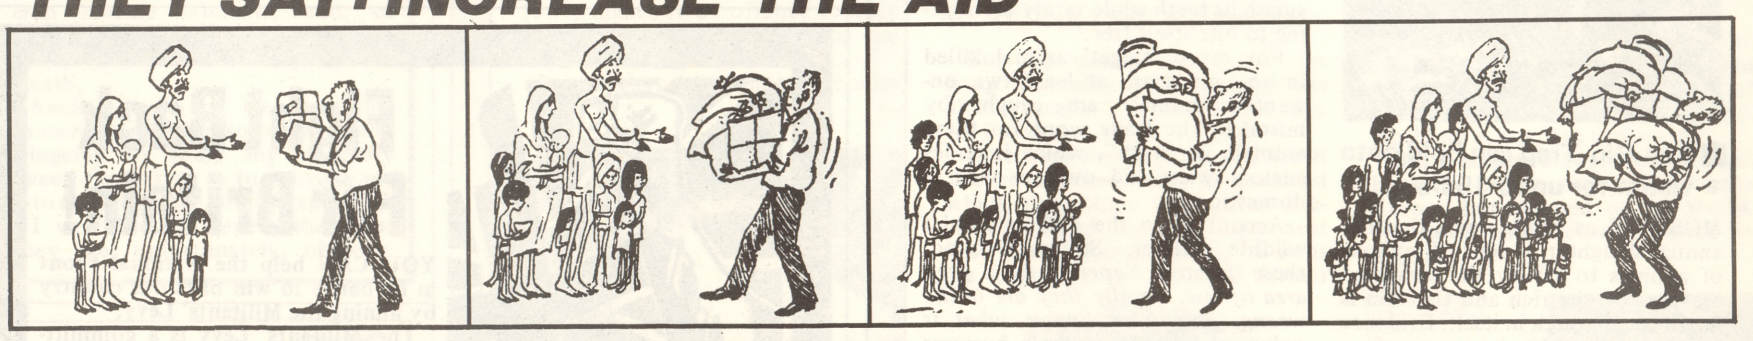
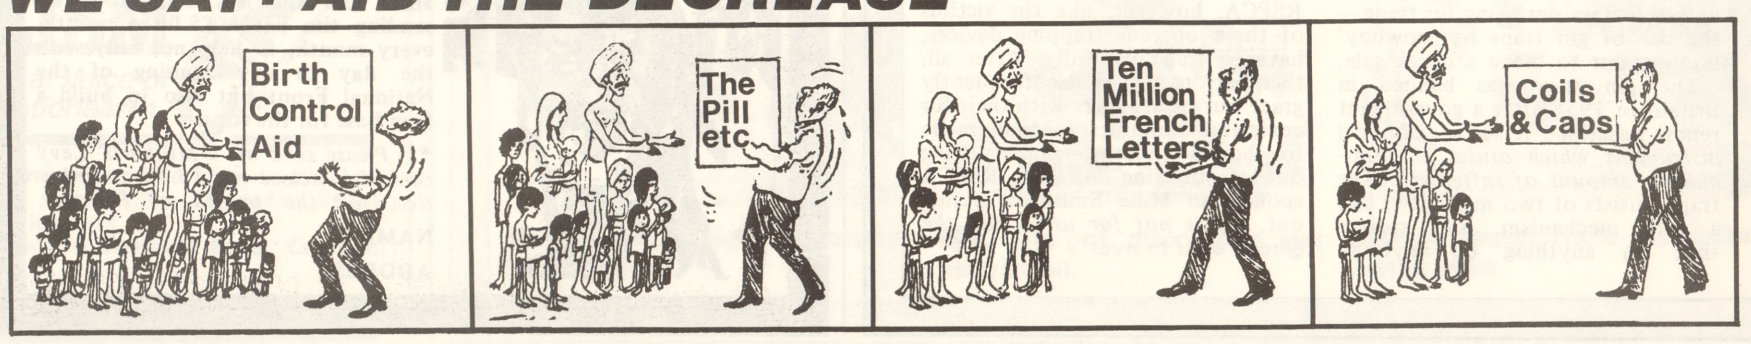
Not content with its present performance, Hounslow NF has set itself a number of new targets for 1985, including the establishment of media and police monitoring sub-departments and the computerisation of its records and files. If its present rate of expansion is anything to go by, Hounslow should be a very professional branch by the end of the year.

THEY SAY: INCREASE THE AID



WE SAY: AID THE DECREASE



Worrying About The Front!

THE LOWERING of the threshold at which an election deposit can be saved would benefit the National Front.

That's what Jewish MP David Winnick believes and that's why he's tabling an amendment to the Representation of the People Bill which is due to come before parliament later this month.

★ David Winnick. Concerned over the Front's electoral potential.

Winnick, who's chairman of Labour's left-wing Tribune Group, is not worried about the election deposit being raised to £1,000 but he believes that the 12½% forfiture level should be maintained and not reduced to the recommended 5%. He fears the National Front may be capable of saving their deposit at the intended reduced level which would 'legitimise' the party and 'promote it into mainstream politics' with a base of electoral support.

REALITY

Graham Williamson, chairman of the National Front election Department, acknowledged David Winnick's argument and confirmed that he and his department would be doing their utmost over the coming months to make the Labour MP's fears a reality.

£70,000 p.a. to cut NHS costs!

A NEW boss has been hired to cut NHS costs – at a salary of £70,000 a year!

And the appointment of former Port of London chief, Victor Paige, has already caused a storm of controversy.

For Bob Jones, national officer of NUPE has claimed that: "Social Services Secretary Norman Fowler and his pals have hired an overpaid axeman to deal a final death blow to the NHS.

"It is absolutely criminal to appoint a man at this kind of salary when hundreds of thousands of NHS employees, including many nurses, are earning less than the official poverty line.

"This attempt to finish off the health service will not work. It will be resisted by nurses, doctors, employees at all levels, and the public."

And it seems that Mr. Jones' view that the Tories want to kill off the NHS is correct. For not only is the new axeman Paige a friend of Tory Health Minister, Kenneth Clarke, he is also a member of BUPA!

Orkney Isles Get Go-Ahead For Windmill Power

IN A MOVE sure to meet with the approval of all radical-Nationalists, a three megawatt Windmill – capable of providing power for 1,000 homes – was, in January, given the go-ahead to be built in the Orkney Isles.

The Windmill will have twin blades of more than 180 feet across, and will join two other small machines that are already providing energy for the Orkney Isles.

COMPETING

The cost of the new Windmill's power will be around 10p per unit. However, studies suggest that this figure could drop to around 3p per unit, when the Windmill is effectively competing with existing diesel-based power generators.

This is exactly the non-nuclear, non-polluting, form of energy production that the National Front prefers, and would positively encourage.

UK: No Gains From Cruise

ONE OF Britain's foremost defence experts has criticised the deployment of American cruise missiles in the UK.

For John Taylor, editor of the authoritive Jane's All The World's Aircraft, has stated: "a nation like the United Kingdom gains nothing by possessing such weapons or by having them on its soil."

Continuing his attack on the US missile, Mr. Taylor noted that "cruise is a completely useless weapon."

"Cruise missiles are claimed to be a deterrent, but how many cities need to be threatened with Hiroshima-type annihilation to deter an enemy? Even if one were launched it would call forth such a response that it is nonsense to associate such weapons with the term 'defence', which means 'defending from attack'."

John Taylor's attack on cruise is timely and correct. The Yanks should be kicked out of Britain, and all their US bases should be shut down. Britain should then adopt a policy of armed neutrality – and remain free from the shackles of the Superpowers!

THE RUN-DOWN OF BRITAIN'S FLEET

STEPS TO reverse the decline in the "disgracefully neglected" British merchant fleet were recently called for by the all-party Parliamentary Maritime Affairs Group.

This call came on top of a warning that Britain might be left with only cruise ships and ferries by the year 2000 if the decline in the merchant fleet continued.

DECLINING

Indeed, in spite of being one of the most modern and efficient in the world, the British fleet was declining at the rate of two ships a week. At this rate, Britain would have no merchant shops by the end of the decade.

Since 1934 when there were 200,000 British men at sea in the merchant fleet – on whom the Navy could call – the figure has reduced to 45,000.

As the Falklands campaign showed, Britain still needs a large and efficient Navy. We also need a much larger merchant fleet to back-up our fighting ships.

Britain is still a maritime nation – this is a fact that the Tories should remember. Britain's Naval forces should be strengthened – not run down!

THE NF'S NEWHAM EVICTION DEMO

'What About The Whites'

ON TUESDAY 15th January about 40 members of the NF's London Instant Response Group mobilised along with local residents to attend a full Council meeting of the London Borough of Newham. They went to protest about the appalling eviction of Mrs McDonnell and her family which took place the previous Friday.

Packing out the public gallery they waited until Councillor Fred Jones rose to his feet to present the Housing Department's report. He was greeted with shouts of "What about the Whites in Newham", "You can't evict us all" and "You won't get away with this". As the Council Chamber fell into uproar some people threw eggs and flour from the public gallery and scattered leaflets from the balcony. Council Officers and the Mayor of Newham was hit and the meeting was adjourned as a result.

PINK TURBAN

Councillor Fred Jones, looking very worried, attempted to hide behind a Sikh councillor wearing a large pink turban. He is claiming that he is being unfairly victimised just because he is carrying out a policy of throwing White families onto the streets.

After the protest all the NF members left the gallery without incident and moved to a local hostelry for refreshment. One amusing aspect of the activity was the attempt by two Special Branch constables to secretly shadow the NF members from their redirection point in central London. Determined to stay unrecognised they fell behind the NF members and on emerging from East Ham station they walked in the wrong direction and were forced to phone the local police station calling for police vans to rush to the station to look for the National Front.

Consequently police were sent from East Ham Police Station which is directly opposite the Town Hall where the Council meeting was taking place, to East Ham underground station. As a result when the Council officials phoned the police to tell them that the NF was staging a protest they were non too politely told that that was impossible as all the NF had been spotted by Special Branch officers at East Ham underground station. We wonder how those two officers managed to explain away their bungling incompetence to the local police.

British Youngsters

DON'T LOSE HOPE

THE CHARACTER OF Britain's youngsters is being tested as it never has before!

The challenge that they face when they have finished their education is one of survival. Survival against the disease of the eighties, survival against despair.

DULLED THEIR SPIRIT

Youngsters today are no longer ready or able, when they leave school, to help in the battle for our nation's prosperity. Marxist indoctrination and the politics of appeasement have dulled their spirit. Their natural pride and patriotism, that should have been nurtured and encouraged during their earlier years, to help them take their place along side their fellow countrymen in working for the welfare of Britain, is all but gone; extinguished by the brainwashing of 'anti-racism', 'anti-nationalism' and the induced feelings of guilt for the achievements of our forefathers.

DIVISION AND STRIFE

It is this confused and uncertain youngster that has to make a way in a country with 3½ million unemployed. In a country where the politicians are only concerned with your problems if you have got a black face. In a country where profit for the individual is more important than the welfare of the nation, and the will to work for the benefit of the country has been destroyed by Government policies that have sold off many of the nation's assets and caused division and strife in the remaining nationalised industries.

BUT ALL IS NOT LOST

There is a political party today that still believes in Britain and the British people. A party whose ideals are those of National Freedom, Social Justice and a committment to the prosperity of the nation. That party is the National Front.

Never before has there been a time when your country needs you and never before has there been a time when you need your country.

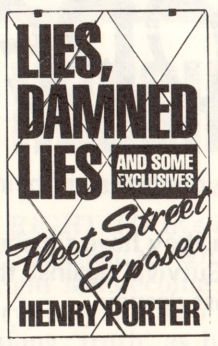
NEW BOOKS



BACK TO THE LAND. Jan Marsh. Hb. 264pp. £12.95 (£1.35).
Jan Marsh chronicles the many manifestations of the back to the land movement between 1880 and 1914. From simple nostalgia to sophisticated political thought she looks at agrarian communes, peasant arts, garden cities, the reclamation of common lands, schools, dress, etc.

BY BLOOD AND FIRE. Thurston Clarke. Pb. 346pp. £1.95 (35p).
Just after midday on 22nd July 1946, Zionist terrorists, under the leadership of Menachem Begin, set the fuses on bombs planted in the basement of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem. This is the story of the murder of 25 Britons, 41 Arabs and 17 Jews;

ORGANISING THINGS. Sue Ward. £4.95 (30p).
Produced by a left wing group but still a highly valuable guide to organising public meetings, marches and demonstrations, petitions, festivals, conferences, etc. Down to earth and a must for every serious political organiser.

LIES, DAMNED LIES. Henry Porter Hb. 211pp. £9.95 (98p)
A journalist himself, Henry Porter, exposes the distortion, inaccuracy and downright dishonesty which is presented as a true record of events by Fleet Street. He also profiles the national newspaper owners and editors and investigates political lobbying, the Press Council, the fabrication of photographic evidence and the daily invention of showbiz gossip.

ARAFAT Alan Hart. Hb. 480pp. £13.95 (£1.35).
Yasser Arafat, Chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organisation, was born in Cairo. At ten he was marching and drilling the children of his neighbourhood. At seventeen he was smuggling weapons from Egypt to Palestine. At nineteen he was fighting in Palestine. This is the inside story of how Arafat has survived 50 assassination attempts and still retains the leadership of the PLO.

GOD'S BANKER. Rupert Cornwell. Pb. £2.95 (40p).
The death in London by hanging from Blackfriar's Bridge of one of Italy's leading bankers, Roberto Calvi, focused the world's attention upon the Vatican's financial affairs and the freemasonic secret societies which are so heavily involved in them.

THE PLANTAGENETS. John Harvey. Pb. 263pp. £1.95 (30p).
While reciting the stories of the 13 Plantagenet Kings John Harvey has managed to upset one section of the establishment by telling the truth about the reasons behind Edward I's decision to expel the Jews from England. It provides a basic description of this 300 year period.

THE NAPOLEON OF NOTTING HILL. G.K. Chesterton. Pb. 158pp. £1.95 (25p).
Auberon Quin is a short, frock-coated Government official who looks like a cross between a baby and an owl. But one day he is approached in Kensington Gardens to become His Majesty the King. This is the story of the era of the "Empire of Notting Hill".

THE MAN WHO WAS THURSDAY. G.K. Chesterton. Pb. 185pp. £2.50 (30p).
In this hilarious extravaganza there are seven members of the Central Anarchist Council who, for reasons of security, call themselves by the names of the days of the week. But Thursday is not quite what he was thought to be.

THE ENGLISH REBELS. Charles Poulsen. Pb. 208pp. £4.95 (40p).
From the earliest recorded rebellion in 1194 to the twentieth century, the English commoner has been fighting privilege and wealth. Often defeated, their struggle has drawn successive generations of working people into new battles for justice and equality. This book traces many of their struggles.
